SERIOUS CUTTING AFFRAY.

John McGowan Stabs Ed. Muntz.

A few days ago John McGowan entered into a contract with Ed. Muntz to cut and shock the latter's corn. He worked one day when he quit and got drunk. Ed. waited several days and still McGowan was absent. Being anxious to get in his wheat he went to work on the corn himself, assisted by two farm hands. Monday McGowan came into the field still drunk and quarrelsome, and wanted to know why he had not waited for him to do the work, etc. Ed. tried to explain to him that he must have the work done in proper season and that he (McGowan) had not complied with the contract, and then went on with his work. McGowan was angry and profane, following Ed. up until the end of the row was reached, when he stabbed him in the chest. The knife, believed to be a common pocket knife, made a frightful wound in the right breast, entering between two ribs and cutting entirely through the wall of the chest, making a very dangerous, though it is hoped, not fatal, wound. McGowan at this writing has not been arrested.

More Millinery.

Last week we discussed the Misses Cox's millinery opening, now the old and well known house of Mr. M. R. Orr has its turn. Lovely things? Yes, and plenty of them. The taste and skill of Miss Clark is well known, and with the willing hands of a bevy of girls to assist the "shop" was a bower of beauty. The long mirror to the left of the entrance, draped in blue velvet yellow brocade ribbon and yellow plumes, was exceedingly pretty, and in the reflected color lights the hats were more pleasing than usual. The ribbon rods were draped in different colored velvets, displayed the many hued ornaments that are so effective in trimming. Velvet seems to have taken the place of felt in a great measure. One particularly pretty hat was of black velvet with pointed crown (somewhat of a Mother Goose shape), the sombreness of the black effect relieved by snow white wings in front. Another of black velvet trimmed in Prince of Wales tips, three in front and one at the back, together with black brocade ribbon. Another perfect beauty was of grass green, "toque shape," having a pattern in pearl passementerie on crown and an aigrette of foliage green with two loops of Nile green velvet at one side. Noticeable among the bonnets was one of black trimmed in Nile green velvet over which was a black feather trimming that reminded one of sea-weeds. A host of brown, blue, gray and green velvet hats of various shapes and shades, enough to satisfy the most fastidious, were tastefully displayed.

Many of the felt hats were very handsome, more so to some than the velvets. One especially pretty one was of gray trimmed in long loops of gray ribbon, from the back and streamers. Another in a "walking shape" with two fans of tan on the side held together by a gilt ornament.

Among the children's hats the prettiest and most original, we thought, was one of tan felt, the broad rim cut in turrets, one corner of each turned back and fastened with a gilt ornament. This was trimmed in scarlet ribbon and was "just the newest thing out," we were told.

There is a cyclone of "Sailors" in the ladies department of the hat world, and for autumn and "Lack" hats they are nobby and useful. But lack of space forbids the mention of any more of the lovely things.

New York Photographers at Hillsboro.

The firm of Weyrich & Maurer, of 200 West 84th street, New York City, respectfully call the attention to the patrons of Hillsboro and vicinity that they have opened a studio on West Main street, known as the Bon Ton, where they are prepared to do work equal to that of any large city. Mr. Weyrich, being over 15 years in that business, and his assistant, Mr. Chas. T. Moore, of the same place, are confident they can please the people of Hillsboro should they favor them with a trial. In fact work speaks for itself.

ATTENTION, REPUBLICANS!

Become Members of Some Club.

We announce elsewhere in this paper a series of meetings in various parts of the county for the purpose of organizing McKinley Clubs. The importance of such local organizations in all campaigns, and especially in this, is open to the observation of every thinking Republican. The Executive and Central Committees are hard at work and doing all in their power to interest the voters of the county in the important issues of this campaign. They are both doing splendid work but this can be supplemented by local concerted action which will very materially aid them. The fight this fall is not for the Executive and Central Committees alone; it is for every Republican who has at heart the best interests of his country, his State and his own county. It has been said, and truly so, that this county is one of the greatest fighting grounds of the State because of the small majority. Every effort will be made this fall to overcome it, but with united, vigorous action on the part of our party we can hold the county without the loss of a man on our ticket. Such is ours by right. Will each and every Republican unite with us in a complete organization to effect this result?

These meetings will be held under the joint direction of the Executive Committee and the Lincoln Club. At each of the meetings advertised persons representing these bodies will be present to explain the plans and purposes of the clubs, to organize and place them in good working order and to confer generally with the Republicans upon all important matters respecting the success of the party. Clubs have already been instituted in many places in the county and are doing good service in behalf of the party. We insist on all the Republicans who live in the neighborhoods where these meetings are advertised to come out and enroll themselves in the cause of that party which represents the best interests of all citizens and whose victory will be a victory for true and correct principles of government.

Obituary.

Melissa Jane, daughter of Thomas and Mary J. Cummings, was born April 1, 1872, died October 2, 1891, aged 19 years. She united with the Pisgah M. E. Church six years ago, under the pastor age of C. J. Wells, and lived an earnest Christian till her death. A week had not elapsed from the death of the husband and father till the sorrowing family were again called upon to part with another of their loved ones. Only a week before they passed through her room that she might see for the last time the face of her earthly father, she was heard to remark: "Pa is gone, but only a few short days and I'll be with him," and so it proved. But while she is missed and mourned for in the school room, social and family circles and when we go to the church where she seldom missed worship and find her not we know that our loss is but her eternal gain.

The funeral was held at the Pisgah M. E. Church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Curless, and the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at that place. The sorrowing and still afflicted family have the sympathy of the entire community in this their double bereavement.

No more in the schoolroom we'll see thee,
From the home thou art absent as well;
Everywhere there's a vacancy near us,
Yet in our hearts thou ever wilt dwell.

"The maid is not dead, only sleeping,"
That blessed assurance is ours;
Though the cold earth below has received her,
In heaven she blossoms with flowers.

Yet again, O loved one! we'll meet thee
In the heavenly portals above
When the double heart wound he afflicted
Will be healed by His wondrous love.

A SCHOOLMATE.

Public Meetings.

The State Executive Committee has made an assignment of speakers for our county for meetings during next week. The list of the appointments is found in another column. These speakers are all men of experience, and have a State reputation for ability in the discussion of party principles. The localities to which they are assigned are to be congratulated, and the Republicans at each and every one of these places should welcome them with meetings worthy of the character of those who will address them. We urge upon each of you in these respective neighborhoods to attend and invite your friends of whatever party to go with you. The discussion of the issues involved will be fair, logical and convincing, and every Republican who attends will come away with renewed zeal, while your Democratic friend will lose nothing by hearing your party principles ably advocated.

Mock Election.

The Republicans will hold a mock election at the Mayor's Office on Thursday evening of this week. The polls will be open at 7:30 o'clock. The election will be conducted in all respects as the election in November. Let every voter attend that can possibly do so, and become thoroughly acquainted with the workings of the new law.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will give a box supper Thursday evening, October 22d. All are cordially invited.

October 9th, 1891.

By authority derived from the Judge of Probate of said County officially, hearing date the 5th day of October, 1891, and after being duly sworn according to law, we, O. N. Sams and Wm. W.
